

Practice Success with HR Leading the Way - Part 2

This workshop encourages participants to look internally and ask themselves how they can be more successful at motivating their team. Sometimes the response we get from others is because of how we approach our relationship with them. When we step back and ask ourselves how can we have a different outcome many times, if we are honest, it is because of how we approached the situation. This workshop will have participants stretching themselves to see what he/she can do to change their approach to personnel to have better performance from their team.
